SBU members detaining an unidentified Frenchman

Investigators in Ukraine said they foiled 15 planned attacks during the European football championships, following the arrest of a French man who they said was attempting to buy guns and explosives.

The unnamed suspect, who had mosques and synagogues on his strike list, was detained in a dramatic surprise assault by Ukrainian forces, who filmed the incident as it unfolded.

The head of Ukraine's State Security Service (SBU) said the suspect, who had made contact with illegal armed groups in the country, intended to target Muslim and Jewish places of worship as well as government buildings in France.

SBU chief Vasily Gritsak: "The Frenchman spoke negatively about his government's actions, mass immigration, the spread of Islam and globalisation, and also talked about plans to carry out several terrorist attacks."

"We did a big job, had a large team of security agents work on it. The bulk of the credit goes to the military counter-intelligence unit of the SBU."

The arrest comes as French intelligence warned 82 security officers hired to guard the football cup are on terror watch lists.

France's Directorate General of Internal Security (ISB) has screened 3,500 individuals already signed up to work at the tournament.

But security services in France said dozens of those had red flags for links to extremists groups, including Islamic State

That group will complement 77,000 police officers and thousands of security and military personnel as fellas volunteers.

Each football team will also be given 17 police officers and two agents with France's elite special forces for extra protection.

Meanwhile, the US State Department has released a warning to Americans of the possible threat of terrorist attacks carried about by Islamic State (ISIS) militants in France this summer.

The official note states: "We are alerting U.S. citizens to the risk of potential terrorist attacks throughout Europe, targeting major events, tourist sites, restaurants, commercial centres and transportation.

"The large number of tourists visiting Europe in the summer months will present greater targets for terrorists planning attacks in public locations, especially at large events."
